

SAMI Meeting 07/11/2009

Our new SAMI Hanger is now ready for construction. The ground has been cleared, and additional soil is being brought in for a proper grade. All of the building materials should show up by August, with construction to follow shortly after that. Once the foundation has been poured, the hanger should take just a couple of weeks to construct once the building materials arrive. God has provided all of the pieces of the puzzle to fall into place over the last 6 months. The vision of having a new hanger to support the operations of Servant Air Ministries is almost a reality.

The Saratoga had previously suffered serious damage in a previous incident. The engine mount has now been redone, and repairs should be completed soon.
